

Title (four options to choose from):

1. Shaping Spaces: The Resilience of Urban Form Through Time
2. Figuration of Urban Space: The Resilience of Form Through Time
3. The Mediated Image of Urban Space: The Resilience of Form Through Time
4. Building a Digital HOUSE. On History, Ontology, and Urban Space

Editor: Wiesława Duży

ORCID: 0000-0002-0489-3171

Email: wieslawa.duzy@ihpan.edu.pl

Table of contents:

I. Introduction

Wiesława Duży, How to build a solid house, or about the Historical Ontology of the Urban Space project

II. Media, sources, data model

1. Øyvind Eide, Modelling as a bridge between maps, spatial concepts, and the territory
2. Francesco Beretta, An ontology of geographical places and their spatiotemporal, social evolution in the context of an extension of the CIDOC CRM for the humanities and social sciences (SDHSS)
3. Humphrey Southall & Paula Aucott, Naming the parts: identifying key features within the urban landscapes of Britain circa 1900

III. Investigating urban space

4. Tabitha Redepenning, Narrating Szczecin. Creation of urban authenticity through touristic city trails
5. Grigori Chlesberg, How names transform space: The change of street names in Poznań and Gdynia in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries
6. Anna-Lena Schumacher, Michał Słomski & Daniel Stracke, Uncertain information and spatial objects. Examples from works on the HOUSE project and the European Historic Towns Atlas series

IV. Mapping objects in urban space

7. Katarzyna Słomska-Przech & Wiesława Duży, Polish Database of Topographic Objects 1:10,000 as a basis for building the formal domain Historical Ontology of Urban Spaces
8. Katarzyna Słomska-Przech & Keith Lilley, Cartography and the city: Exploring urban ontologies through historic town-plans
9. Marta Demchyna, Katarzyna Słomska-Przech & Tomasz Panecki, Changes in spatial development of Lviv from the second half of 18th century to the present day

The book has been published with financial support from the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange as a result of the project Historical Ontology of Urban Space (project no. PPI/APM/2019/1/00053/U/00001). Editor also thanks to the Foundation of the Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences supporting authors at the very final phase of the book production.

